TO MY PATRONS

Terms are strictly cash in advance. No order is entered on my books until paid for.

All bulbs are one and one-quarter inches or more in diameter, and I believe them to be true to name, as I exercise all the care possible to keep the stock pure. I will replace, free, any bulbs that are not true.

Shipments will begin about April 1st or sooner if the weather will permit.

Place your orders early.

All bulbs sent by prepaid parcels post at prices stated.

CULTURAL DIRECTIONS

Bulbs may be planted at any time in the spring after danger of frost is past, as late as June 15. In light or sandy soil 5 inches deep is about right, and 3 to 4 inches in heavier soil. Ground should be in good workable condition and well fertilized, but do not use fresh manure. Well rotted manure well mixed with the soil is all right. In a dry season see that they have plenty of water.

Dig in October, cut the stems about an inch from the bulb, dry in the open air for a week or ten days, then store in a cool, dry cellar. A vegetable cellar is all right. Stir them up several times during the winter.

CARMEN SYLVA

This is a new white variety offered this year, which has won first prize for white for the past two years at the New York State Fair in competition with nearly every white of merit known to the trade. The flower is large and pure white except for slight lilac pencilings in the throat which are distinguishable only on close inspection. It is a valuable new sort. Price, 50 cents each; $5.00 per dozen.

GOLD

Is a new yellow of surpassing beauty. Flower is a pure golden yellow. Many who have observed it growing in my own garden side by side with Golden Measure claim it is equally as good as Kelway's production, but it is not quite as tall. Only a few bulbs have been sold and these in widely scattered localities, and all reports indicate that it is one of the finest yellows ever originated in America. I have only a few hundred bulbs for sale this year, and orders will be accepted subject to stock being sold. Price, $2.00 each.

I have several thousand bulbs of Le Marechal Foch which I imported from Holland a year ago, but these I cannot sell for another year on account of the restrictions of the Federal Horticultural Board. This is an extra large light pink, a little deeper than America and a very beautiful flower.

I can obtain a supply of bulbs from another grower who imported them in 1920 and the price will be 50 cents each, $5.00 per dozen, should you wish to purchase any.
